

Kōdo Redact

The evolution of safe guarding client information has forced organisations to get smarter with handling individual's private information. This includes the collection and use of personal data, such as credit card information.

Toshiba's Kōdo Redact reduces the risk and assists you in your compliance activities. With current legislation mandating hefty fines for data breaches, why take a chance with your customers data?

By analysing your electronic and scanned documents, then locating and redacting instances of CCNs, you'll have peace of mind, and avoid the risk of a hefty fine.

- 32% of consumers believe their online privacy is adequately protected

- 58% of organisations have a data protection and privacy policy

- 63% don't think that their organisation could stop the theft of confidential information

HOW DO YOU PROTECT SENSITIVE CLIENT DATA?

Cybersecurity and data breaches are a major focus in current business activities. The last thing that your business needs is to have to notify your client base of a potentially hazardous data breach. Not only does this consume time and resources, but also damages a relationship that could easily have been prevented.

- Automate the secure capture and redaction of client information
- Upload documents via various file formats; both paper-based and digital
- Simple and quick document error verification
- File output to a nominated folder structure for easy retrieval
- Quickly and easily demonstrate document compliance via inbuilt file log
